

2.15: Putting It Together- Internet Research

After learning about different ways to conduct research on the internet, you can now more confidently try searching for business information and even information to satisfy personal curiosity. The world is now open in a much larger way for you to discover ways to improve business management reports, presentations, conduct competitive analysis, and experience the variety of business information out on the web.

This module has covered quite a few methods for searching. As a quick refresher, watch this video that reiterates most of the aspects from this module.
