

11.1: Introduction

Privacy is a fundamental right of individuals that is often compromised by government and businesses. Sometimes individuals and businesses voluntarily give up their privacy rights, without considering the consequences of doing so. Workplace privacy and information security is a fast growing area of the law that has important implications across industries.

Counselor's Corner Privacy and cybersecurity are two of the most dynamic areas of the law. As our society becomes more and more dependent on technology, and as the Internet of Things continues to expand, we are seeing privacy issues explode in personal and professional contexts. Businesses would do well to consult with cybersecurity and privacy experts to ensure that they are complying with the law and protecting their networks and confidential information as much as possible. Bringing in experts after you have a security breach or lawsuit filed is way too late. Be proactive. It just may save your business. ~Katie D., attorney

11.1: Introduction is shared under a not declared license and was authored, remixed, and/or curated by LibreTexts.

- 21.1: Introduction by Melissa Randall and Community College of Denver Students is licensed CC BY 4.0. Original source: <https://introductiontobusinesslaw.pressbooks.com>.