

5.1: Purpose

For many businesses, working from home has become the norm; most of their activities are now taking place online. We're also likely to see this massive change carry on into the future.

And for good reason.

- 85% of businesses state their productivity has increased after going remote.
- 50% of remote workers report that it has reduced their sick days. Fifty-six percent of those working from home take fewer leaves of absence.
- Remote workers are 57% more likely to be satisfied than the average American worker.
