Welcome to MGT 235!

We're glad that you're here. We hope that you will find the knowledge you gain in this class useful not only in your selected major here at Gettysburg, but also beyond the classroom in your day-to-day life. Please know that your instructors are here to support you as you practice these skills and become statistically savvy - keep us informed when you have questions, whether that is in class, in office hours, or by email.

Acknowledgements

Because this book is an open educational resource (OER), we can revise it ourselves as we encounter errors or wish to make updates. We are especially grateful to our students who have helped us catch mistakes and made suggestions for clarifications. These include:
