

About the Author

5

Dr Klaire Somoray (they/she) is a Lecturer in Psychology at the College of Healthcare Sciences, James Cook University. They completed their PhD at Queensland University of Technology, within the Centre for Accident Research and Road Safety Queensland (CARRS-Q).

Dr Somoray has a diverse research portfolio. Due to their primary expertise in statistical modelling and quantitative research methodologies, they have been involved in different research projects, including research on traffic psychology, workplace health, safety and wellbeing, and criminology.

Currently, they have a strong interest in examining the positive and negative impacts of data and technology at the individual- and societal-level.

If you would like to provide feedback on this OER, please do so by contacting Klaire by email: klaire.somoray@jcu.edu.au